TWENTIETH-CENTURY BRITISH SOCIAL & POLITICAL HISTORY • 1900–PRESENT

Rights, Protest, and Post-War Britain

From the Suffrage Campaign & the Welfare State to Commonwealth Civil Rights and the Nuclear Age

5 ENQUIRIES
16-PAGE STANDARD

PRIMARY ARTWORK • SOUTH BANK EXHIBITION, LONDON (1951)

PRIMARY EVIDENCE • POST-WAR RENEWAL

Historical Context: In the summer of 1951, a century after the 1851 Great Exhibition, Clement Attlee's government opened the Festival of Britain on London's bomb-damaged South Bank. Designed by graphic artist Abram Games, the iconic Britannia emblem symbolised national recovery, scientific modernity, and democratic pride rising from the ruins of total war.

> Central Enquiry: How did post-war reconstruction, the Welfare State, and Commonwealth migration fundamentally redefine what it meant to be British?

Holding Archive: Victoria and Albert Museum / The National Archives, BT 26/1237. Official Festival Guide cover by Abram Games (1914–1996).

- 1959 First Caribbean Carnival

The British Nationality Act 1948 granted 800 million colonial subjects the unrestricted legal right to live and work in the United Kingdom.

Question 3: Historiographical Interpretations [12 marks • 15 mins]

HISTORIOGRAPHICAL ANALYSIS

INTERPRETATION 1 • HISTORIAN PETER FRYER, STAYING POWER: THE HISTORY OF BLACK PEOPLE IN BRITAIN (1984)

"The Windrush pioneers arrived with high hopes, believing they were returning to their ancestral Mother Country as proud British subjects. Instead, they were met with cold weather, squalid housing, and an open colour bar. Landlords slammed doors in their faces, and employers relegated skilled tradesmen to the most menial jobs. Yet through mutual-aid 'Pardner' schemes, church fellowships, and sheer resilience, they built vibrant communities that enriched the cultural life of the nation."

INTERPRETATION 2 • SOCIOLOGIST SHEILA PATTERSON, DARK STRANGERS: A STUDY OF WEST INDIANS IN LONDON (1963)

"Post-war British society was not intentionally hostile, but rather deeply insular and bewildered by sudden cultural diversity. The initial friction in housing and employment was primarily a clash of customs, dialects, and social expectations rather than systemic racial prejudice. Given time, full employment, and gradual assimilation into British working-class neighbourhoods, Commonwealth migrants would be absorbed harmoniously into the fabric of British life."

Question 3(b): Study Interpretations 1 and 2. How do they differ about the reception faced by the Windrush Generation in post-war Britain? [4 marks]

PART B

Question 3(c): Suggest one reason why Interpretations 1 and 2 give different views about the experiences of Caribbean migrants. [8 marks]

Living Timeline Dual-Coding Protocol: Complete each milestone sketchpad using dual-coding (combining visual storytelling symbols, causal arrows, and dates) to master the chronological spine across the centre-fold.

1897 • Formation of the NUWSS & Constitutional Suffrage

Enquiry 1

Millicent Fawcett unites regional suffrage societies into the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies (NUWSS). Campaigning with peaceful petitions, parliamentary lobbying, and mass marches, they prove female political maturity.

1903–1913 • Formation of the WSPU & The "Cat and Mouse Act"

Enquiry 1

Emmeline Pankhurst founds the Women's Social and Political Union (WSPU) under "Deeds, not words". Suffragettes adopt militant civil disobedience, window-smashing, hunger strikes, and force-feeding under the 1913 Cat and Mouse Act.

Feb 1918 • Representation of the People Act 1918

Enquiry 1

Following the decisive mobilization of over 1.5 million women in munitions factories ("Canary Girls"), transport, and the Land Army during World War I, Parliament grants women over thirty meeting property criteria the right to vote.

Dec 1942 • The Beveridge Report & Slaying the "Five Giants"

Enquiry 2

Sir William Beveridge publishes his revolutionary blueprint on Social Insurance, selling over 630,000 copies. He pledges to conquer the Five Giants—Want, Disease, Ignorance, Squalor, and Idleness—"from the cradle to the grave".

Centrefold timeline: Dual-coding sketches and dates turns narrative history into permanent long-term memory.

Living Timeline Dual-Coding Protocol: Complete each milestone sketchpad using dual-coding (combining visual storytelling symbols, causal arrows, and dates) to master the chronological spine across the centre-fold.

5 July 1948 • Foundation of the National Health Service (NHS)

Enquiry 2

Minister of Health Aneurin Bevan opens the NHS at Park Hospital, Davyhulme. Overcoming fierce BMA resistance by compromising with consultants, Bevan establishes healthcare funded by taxation and completely free at the point of delivery.

22 June 1948 • Arrival of HMT Empire Windrush at Tilbury

Enquiry 3

The Empire Windrush docks carrying 492 Caribbean passengers invited to help reconstruct post-war Britain. Arriving as citizens under the British Nationality Act 1948, they confront the colour bar, building mutual-aid Pardner networks.

1963 • The Bristol Bus Boycott & Race Relations Acts

Enquiry 4

Paul Stephenson and Roy Hackett lead a four-month passenger boycott against the Bristol Omnibus Company's refusal to hire Black or Asian bus crews. Capitulation on 28 August 1963 paves the way for the Race Relations Acts of 1965 and 1968.

1958–1982 • CND, Aldermaston Marches & Greenham Common

Enquiry 5

The Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament (CND) launches the annual Aldermaston Marches, using Gerald Holtom's peace symbol. Nuclear anxiety inspires civil defence bunkers like York, while 30,000 women "Embrace the Base" at Greenham Common in 1982.

How did community direct action during the 1963 Bristol Bus Boycott force Britain's first Race Relations Acts?

Core Specification Focus: Racial discrimination legal in Britain prior to 1965; Bristol Omnibus Company & TGWU union enforcing an open "colour bar"; rejection of 18-year-old Guy Bailey in March 1963; Paul Stephenson, Roy Hackett & West Indian Development Council; inspiration of Rosa Parks & 1955 Montgomery Bus Boycott; 30 April 1963 passenger boycott launch; student marches & Tony Benn's intervention; capitulation on 28 August 1963 & Raghbir Singh; Race Relations Act 1965 & Race Relations Act 1968.

Stage 1 Text [4.1] Early 1963 • Why did the Bristol Omnibus Company enforce an open colour bar?

• No Black Drivers or Conductors
• Severe Shortage of 200 Staff
• Union Backs Discriminatory Ban

Stage 2 Text [4.2] March 1963 • What happened when Guy Bailey applied for a conductor post?

• Qualified 18-Year-Old Applicant
• Depot Cancels Interview on Phone
• Direct Proof of Racial Ban

Stage 3 Text [4.3] 30 April 1963 • How was the Bristol Bus Boycott organised and launched?

• West Indian Development Council
• Inspired by US Montgomery Boycott
• Thousands Refuse to Ride Buses

Stage 4 Text [4.4] May–Aug 1963 • How did student marches and political pressure isolate the company?

• Bristol Students March in Streets
• Tony Benn Backs the Boycott
• Harold Wilson Pledges Legislation

Stage 5 Text [4.5] 1963–1968 • How did victory lead directly to the 1965 and 1968 Race Relations Acts?

• Colour Bar Ends 28 August 1963
• First Sikh Conductor Hired
• Statutory Bans on Discrimination

On 28 August 1963—the same day Martin Luther King delivered "I Have a Dream"—the Bristol Omnibus Company announced the end of the colour bar.

Question 1: Narrative Account [8 marks • 10 mins]

PART A • NARRATIVE

Write a narrative account analysing how the 1963 Bristol Bus Boycott led to the defeat of the company's colour bar. [8 marks]
