GCSE Exam Practice

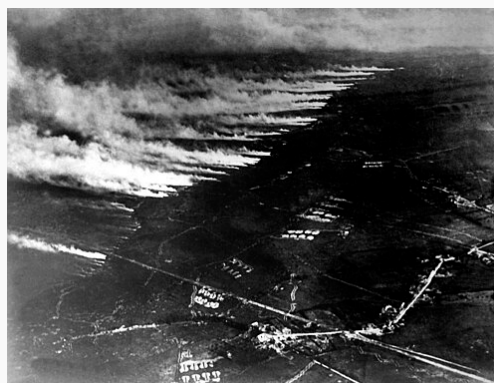

Source A

A photograph taken by official war photographer Frank Hurley showing Australian soldiers walking along a duckboard track through the shattered landscape of Chateau Wood during the Battle of Passchendaele, 1917.

Source B

An aerial photograph showing clouds of poison gas rolling across the battlefield during a chemical attack on the Western Front.

Provenance Scaffolding:

Source A was taken by an official photographer known for dramatic compositions; does this limit its usefulness or perfectly capture the reality of the mud? Source B is an aerial photograph of a gas attack; what makes this detached, wide-angle view of the battlefield useful for understanding the scale of chemical warfare?

Q1. 1 (a). How useful are Sources A and B for an enquiry into the difficult conditions faced by the medical services at Passchendaele and Ypres? Explain your answer, using Sources A and B and your knowledge of the historical context.

[8 marks • 10 mins]

GCSE Exam Practice

Source A

A photograph showing the complete destruction of the Cloth Hall in the Ypres town square, 1918.

Source B

A photograph of British soldiers relaxing and drinking tea inside Talbot House (Toc H) in Poperinge.

Provenance Scaffolding:

Source A is a factual photograph documenting structural damage; what can it tell us about the destructive power of artillery? Source B shows men resting at Talbot House; why was this 'Every Man's Club' so vital for morale just a few miles behind the front line?

Q2. 1 (a). How useful are Sources A and B for an enquiry into the impact of the war on the town of Ypres and the importance of rest for the soldiers? Explain your answer, using Sources A and B and your knowledge of the historical context.
