Source B: Archival Diplomatic Dispatch: The 7 April 1967 Air Battle and Arab Political Repercussions

Following the shooting down of six Syrian MiG-21 fighters over Damascus on 7 April, intense political pressure has gripped both Damascus and Cairo. Syrian authorities and state media have expressed profound outrage at Egypt's failure to intervene, openly questioning the value of the November 1966 Egyptian-Syrian Defence Agreement. Radio Damascus and Syrian editorial columns have launched stinging taunts against President Gamal Abdel Nasser, pointedly asking why 100,000 Egyptian troops and hundreds of jet fighters remain inactive behind the shield of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) in the Sinai Peninsula while Israeli aircraft strike Syrian territory with impunity. Western diplomatic observers in Cairo confirm that this sustained public humiliation has gravely damaged Nasser's prestige as the undisputed leader of the Arab world, making it virtually impossible for him to remain inactive during the next border crisis without facing complete political delegitimization.

GCSE Exam Practice

Source A: Archival Communiqué: The Khartoum Arab League Summit Resolution (1 September 1967)

The Arab Heads of State have agreed to united political efforts at the international and diplomatic level to eliminate the effects of aggression and to ensure the withdrawal of the aggressive Israeli forces from the Arab lands which have been occupied since the aggression of 5 June. This will be done within the framework of the main principles by which the Arab States abide, namely: no peace with Israel, no recognition of Israel, no negotiations with it, and adherence to the rights of the Palestinian people in their own country.

Official English translation of the third clause of the Khartoum Summit declaration issued by eight Arab heads of state in Sudan.

Source B: Diplomatic Treaty Comparison: Article 1(i) of UN Security Council Resolution 242 in English and French

Article 1(i) of UN Security Council Resolution 242 (Adopted 22 November 1967):
[Official English Text — Drafted by Lord Caradon, UK]: 'Affirms that the fulfilment of Charter principles requires the establishment of a just and lasting peace in the Middle East which should include the application of both the following principles: (i) Withdrawal of Israel armed forces from territories occupied in the recent conflict...'
[Official French Text — Equally Authoritative Official UN Record]: 'Affirme que l\'accomplissement des principes de la Charte exige l\'instauration d\'une paix juste et durable au Moyen-Orient, qui devrait comprendre l\'application des deux principes suivants: (i) Retrait des forces armées israéliennes des territoires occupés lors du récent conflit...' [Linguistic Significance]: The English text deliberately omits the definite article 'the' ('from territories occupied'), enabling Israel to argue it is only required to withdraw from SOME occupied territories to secure defensible borders. Conversely, the French text uses 'des territoires occupés' ('from THE occupied territories'), enabling Arab governments to insist that international law mandates complete withdrawal from ALL occupied lands.

Parallel text comparison illustrating the deliberate absence of the definite article "the" in the English version compared to the French translation.

- [P2] Point 2: Linguistic Ambiguity & Diplomatic Deadlock: Explain how the dispute over "the" and omitting Palestinian rights led to 30 years of diplomatic stalemate.
